

Power Team

Exelon Power Team is located in Kennett Square, Pennsylvania. As Exelon's wholesale power marketing division, Power Team is responsible for developing and implementing Exelon Generation's long-term sales and supply strategy, as well as the physical delivery of power and optimization of Exelon Generation's portfolio of assets. Kenneth Cornew is president of Exelon Power Team.

Power Team is the energy supplier to a number of municipal, cooperative, and investor-owned utilities; retail energy aggregators; merchant participants; and major commodity trading houses. Power Team's ability to maintain perfect delivery to its wholesale customers has established it as a preferred energy supplier throughout the industry.

Power Team's 24/7 operation includes generation dispatch, weather and load forecasting, transmission congestion management, and fuel logistic operations.

Among the nation's largest suppliers to regulated and deregulated loads, Power Team has the experience and expertise needed to manage generation and load portfolios in bilateral and regional transmission organization (RTO) markets as well as markets still being defined. Power Team's knowledge is also reflected in its tangible assets, including its information systems and delivery infrastructure.

Power Team's transactors come from diverse industry and educational backgrounds and are supported by a wide spectrum of staff expertise including finance, risk, credit, structuring, engineering, development, environmental, legal, and weather and load forecasting. This diversity brings with it the benefit of seeing transactions from many different perspectives and creating solutions that meet the needs of customers.

Exelon Energy Company is Exelon's growing retail marketing organization specializing in the supply of natural gas and electricity to commercial and industrial customers and has been serving customers since 1998. Exelon Energy currently markets electricity to customers in Illinois and Michigan and natural gas to customers in Illinois, Michigan, and Ohio.

Power Team is a leader in established best practices for the power marketing industry and is committed to exemplary ethical standards, which they have upheld since their first trade more than a decade ago.
