

Sunny Elebua

Senior Vice President and Chief Strategy and Sustainability Officer, Exelon Corporation

Profile

Sunny Elebua serves as senior vice president and Chief Strategy and Sustainability Officer at Exelon, where he is responsible for the development of an integrated strategy that addresses jurisdictional trends across our operating companies, coupling Exelon's growth with the needs of our customers, regulators and communities. Elebua leads the development of a customer strategy to drive growth during the clean energy transformation. In this role, he is also responsible for the development of Exelon's sustainability strategy and leads Exelon's efforts to evaluate and advance the technology, policy and regulatory transformations required to achieve a net-zero GHG goal by 2050. Elebua also oversees technology and innovation functions across Exelon, leading programs to evaluate and invest in technologies that have the potential to be transformative over time.

Professional History

Elebua was named to his current role in November 2021 after assuming responsibility for the company's Sustainability efforts in August 2021. Prior to his current role, he served as vice president, Corporate Strategy & Technology from 2016 until 2021, and as a director from 2013 until 2016. Elebua began his career with Exelon in 2008 in the Corporate Development organization, where he was responsible for evaluating and executing potential M&A transactions, playing a significant role in the acquisition of Exelon's renewables platform and the merger with Constellation Energy.

Prior to joining Exelon, Elebua was an investment banking associate with Wachovia Securities (Wells Fargo), where he covered the Energy & Power sector. He started his career at Arthur Andersen in the Assurance and Business Advisory Practice.

Civic Involvement

Elebua is passionate about nature and STEM education and serves on the Boards of Wildlife Habitat Council, Brookfield Zoo Chicago and the National Energy Education Development (NEED) Program.

Education

Elebua holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Nigeria and an MBA from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania.